?Why the Weather? DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS, ccretary American Meteorological Society, says: Expanding Air Forms

Clouds

On a bright, pleasant morning the air near the ground, cooled in the night, begins to feel the warming influence of the sunshine. Naturally, within a given area the heating is more rapid in some places than in others. Over an open pasture, for example, it would be quicker than over a tract of woodland. As the air is heated it expands, and presently the warmer masses feel the pressure of the heavier, cooler air about them and are forced upward, all the time expanding as they ascend, and cooling as they expand. Finally the columns reach a height at which the cooling has brought the air to its dewpoint and vapor condenses as clouds.

On a muggy, summer morning they may be seen forming as fleecy white puffs above the smoky outpourings of factory chimneys, whose heat has caused the first of the ascending air columns. The rising air must be replaced, and currents of cool air descend from aloft. Were air isible we should see this vertical circulation, with currents ascending and currents descending. On a hot muggy day this action becomes violent and the currents travel at great speed. The turbulence hurls the speed. The tyrbulence hurls the moist air high above the cloud base, and tander storm conditions are created. The phenomenon is known as

The phenomenon is known as convection, which is a common word in technical discussion of the weather. In some form it is the cause of the great majority of clouds. A similar phenomenon occurs when warm moist air encounters high land, such as a range of mountains, and is deflected upward. E. O. FIGGE IS HELD UNDER MANN CHARGE

Several Spirited Verbal Clashes Mark Preliminary Hearing Thursday.

After several spirited verbal clashes etween District Attorney Clint W. Hager and Attorney W. Paul Carpenter, counsel for the defense, E. O. Figge, charged with violation of the Mann white slave act, was held under Mann white slave act, was held under $400 bond late Thursday.

Figge was given a preliminary trial before United States Commissioner W. Colquitt Carter. His arrest occurred here about a month ago after the department of justice received complaint that he was transporting his wife, Mrs. Doris Figge, a former carnival worker, from point to point throughout the south for immoral nurposes.

Declines to Talk.

Mrs. Figge, who was arrested with her husband and later released, was a witness for the government, but declined to answer the questions of the district attorney after Commissioner Carter had instructed her that she would not be required to do so if it incriminated herself.

Through various witnesses the gov-it incriminated herself.

Through various witnesses the government sought to show that Figge had brought his wife to Atlanta and had kept her at a number of houses of ill repute and had required her to make engagements with other men.

Many lively tilts occurred between Attorney Carpenter and District Attorney Hager as the hearing propressed, and considerable time was consumed in the argument of various legal points.

opening his arguments Attorney In opening his arguments Attorney Carpenter attributed Figge's predicament to the animosity of Colonel A. J. Wismer, special agent for the department of justice, bureau of investigation, who, the attorney asserted, "had it in for Figge because he is a German," and had even gone so far as to curse Figge.

Wismer Makes Denial. Colonel Wismer took exception to be statement by the attorney that he

"I did not admit any such thing," the agent, intercupting the attorney, declared with emphasis.

"You certainly did," Attorney Carpenter replied. "You admitted under oath that you called him a liar."

"That isn't cursing," Agent Wismer rejoined.

"It certainly is," the attorney said.

"It certainly is," the attorney said.

"Then," the agent said, again taking his seat, "you have even less sense than I thought you had" than I thought you had"

At this point Deputy Marshal Wal-lace insisted in stentorian tones that order be maintained and the attororder be maintained and the attor-ney proceeded with his argument. Government agents said they have information that Figge is wanted in Miami and Birmingham on charges involving the passing of bad checks.

DANGER SIGNALS

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning.

Beware of indigestion-the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "lets down" in tone and vigor with the first approach of warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books tell us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull, lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restlessness, un-refreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Sometimes, pain and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

TWO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS NAMED HEADS FOR YEAR

Miss Mary Lou Sullivan and Miss Edna Volberg, students at Girls' High school, were honored Thursday by their sister students when election day rolled around for the naming of officers for the coming school year. Miss Sullivan was elected president of Mallon society and Miss Volberg will head the student organization. The Mallon society is composed of members of the senior class and the office of president corresponds to the same office in any senior class organization. Miss Sullivan will represent the school in all student activities. Miss Volberg heads a body of two members from each class room and is supervised by a council formed of Miss Muse, principal of the school; Miss Volberg, four senior members and two other members. The elections were held by popular vote of the student body.

Let's Build for the Future by Solving Atlanta's Transportation Problem Now!

66 T RANSIT AND TRAFFIC conditions in a city correspond to the blood circulation of a human being. There can be no complete, coherent, consistent growth without a complete circulatory system." -The Atlanta Georgian.

COONER OR LATER cities, just like individuals, come to the fork in the roads. This means they must take one of two directions. There comes the inevitable time when a decision must be made and that decision, of course, must be fair and in the interests of the greatest number of people.

The Georgia Railway & Power Company believes that the FORWARD MARCH of Atlanta depends on a definite and positive solution of the city's transportation and traffic problems NOW. The correct solution, made in the interest of the greatest number of people, will incline more people to live in Atlanta; will mean the opening of new subdivisions; thoroughly dependable and speedy transportation service for the convenience and comfort of our citizens—in short, the progress of Atlanta and the well-being of our citizens.

This Company has, by the authority and with the consent of the City of Atlanta, made an investment of many millions of dollars to furnish transportation to the people of Atlanta. The Cmpany is striving to the extent of its resources and energy to make this public service as good as possible.

Conditions, injurious to the public as well as to the Company, and over which the Company has no control, make it increasingly more difficult to furnish transportation service to meet the future growth of the community. Surely no one wants these conditions to continue to the extent that they will affect and probably retard the growth of the City.

The Company has filed with the City Clerk for presentation to Council next Monday a constructive plan setting forth its desire to solve the present and future transportation problem of Atlanta by adding a bus service and making numerous and continuous improvements in the transportation system. Hope is expressed in the petition that the City and the Public will cooperate and make it possible to carry out these

This Company believes Atlanta expects to depend on it to furnish transportation. The Company stands ready to do its part and believes that its program merits and will receive your support.

Since the plan is of personal interest to every one, you are invited to study it and to offer your suggestions.

MAKE STREETS SAFE!

There is scarcely a day that some pedestrian does not give up his life on the streets of Atlanta to the recklessness of careless and incompetent, or indifferent or whisky-fired automobile drivers.

Where a life is not the toll, a serious, frequently an irreparable injury, to some innocent individual who has a right to expect safety on the streets, is the result.

Just as frequently collisions in which several are injured-some of them perhaps killed or maimed for life-result from the carelessness or incompetence of one or other of the colliding drivers.

12-YEAR-OLD BOY CHAINED TO CHAIR FOR SEVEN HOURS

New York, May 17.—With his legs bound to a chair by chains so strong the police could not break them, 12-vear-old Dominick Gianettino was found in the kitchen of his home Wed-

A heavy padlock held the chains.

A heavy padlock held the chains. The key to it had been taken by the boy's father when he started for work Wednesday morning.

Helpless to free the suffering lad, his mother stood by and watched him writhe in pain. She told the police he had been bound for seven hours.

After a vain attempt to break the chain, which had cut into the boy's ankles, a patrol waron took boy and chain to a police station.

Gianettino said he chained his son because he remained out late at night and played truant from school.

Montgomery, Ala., May 17.—Sixten colleges will be represented when the big Southern Inter-collegate track and field meet gets under way at Cramton Bowl Friday. The complete list is as follows: Auburn, Alabama, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Florida, Ole Miss, Mississippi A. & M., Louisiana State, Tulane, Tinnessee, Kentucky, Maryland, Clemon, North Carolina, Vanderbilt and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

The foremost stars of the Dixie track constellation will be on hand, when the almost score of colleges from ten states begin their title chase. Southern champions, one national record holder and many seeficinal stellar performers will be in the competition. Cochran, of Missispipi A. & M., is the national quarter mile record holder and his fame has spread far and wide.

While no favorites have been ramed, L. S. U., the Miss. A. & M. Maroons, Georgia Tech, Clemson and North Carolina are being picked to finish strong, while every outfit entered has several tracksters of the first calibre among their list of competitors.

Gene Sarazen Showing Up Well in England-Hagen

Golfers' Surprise.

BY WALTER HAGEN, British Open Champion and Correspondent of The Constitution and of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Leeds, May 17.—I had a heartbreaking match today with T. Barber who proved a pretty tough customer. I beat him on the twentyfirst hole. Sarazen won his match from M. Seymour quite handily by five and three. We were both sorry that Charlis Haffer folkarry that Charlie Hoffner failed to ry that Charlie Hoffner failed to qualify.

Sarazen, Hoffner and myself entered the Yorkshire Evening News tournament here at Leeds more for the experience it might give us than for the idea of collecting the long end of the big purse. Of course, we are not turning down any chance to get British pounds and shillings but the opportunity it has afforded us for practice has been sufficient recompense.

It was little Gene's first experience in tournament play on this side of the Atlantic. The British golfers looked him over critically and were satisfied that he would do. Gene surprised them with his very long hitting. He managed to get some remarkable tee shots and followed them up with some truly great iron club and the satisfied. "Are you positive that this took place in 1916?" I asked him.

"Quite positive,' he replied.
"Well, that's very singular, Mr. up with some truly great iron club play.

Is Playing Well.

I had an idea that he might fall, off a little here on his first tournament, but Gene stands the gaff well. He is hitting a long, low ball which is going to be useful at Troon if he can keep it in working order. Troon will be a better course for us all than if we were playing down at Sandwich or Deal. There is not much wind here at Leeds but we ran into a young snow storm, something quite unusual for this country at this time of the year.

Armistead,' I informed him, 'because in 1916 I was not even connected with the police department.'

"He then admitted his mistake and said he didn't remember when the case was reported to me, if at all. We then talked about another case of the kind which I explained to him had been referred to Captain E. L. Jett and had been returned to me with the report that no case could be made.

He pulled together and came back in thirty-six. He was not using his putter as well as he usually does in this medal test. The score of 151, however, was creditable and he safely got in among the qualifiers. I did 147 for the double round. My driving was good enough but I found the keen greens a little uncertain and took more putts than I should ordinarily in playing a round.

Joe Kirkwood played magnificent golf and led the field with 139. Other low scorers were: Arthur Hayers and ow scorers were: Arthur Havers and J. G. Wilson, two very good profes-sionals who appear right at the top of their game. Havers has been con-sidered for three years as one of England's best, and most favored to step into the shoes of Vardon, Braid or Taylor.

Havers did well the first year I came over here, finishing fourth, if came over here, finishing fourth, if nemory serves me. Two years ago he was again fourth. But last summer failed to get in the money, a big disappointment for his many admirers. He did not come up to his 1921 form in the early spring tournaments here on the British Isles. Havers is built something like Wethered—tall and rangy—but is stouter. He can hit a fine tee shot, and appears to have plenty of nerve. He has beaten Mitchell in match play, and this is a big feather in his cap.

J. G. Wilson has never won anything of importance, but he is a promising golfer and may start a winning streak any time. He shared honors with Havers in scoring a 143, Wilson has not figured much in championship play up to date. pionship play up to date.

WHAT Does Air-Bag Curing Do to a Tire?

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are cured under internal expansion on air-bags. Each cord is held straight and taut during vulcanization, giving perfect alignment, preventing creasing and avoiding the possibility of the cord fabric buckling.

Air-bag curing is a costlier process, but it adds carcass-strength and wear to the tire that increases mileage and cuts user costs.

The uniform dependability and wear of Firestone Cords, their nation-wide popularity among the more discriminating car owners, their never-waning reputation for Most Miles per Dollar-are significant facts

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Young Stribling, Macon middle-weight, performed the iron-man stunt in Atlanta's first pugliistic double-header which was staged last night at Spiller's arena, when he knocked out Al Nelson twice in five rounds in an affair that was advertised to carry the southern middle-weight championship with it.

The first knockout was delivered in the third round. The boys were companyed to fone of the many clinches that had marred the contest when "Strib" shoved Nelson away. The latter fell back to the ropes, rolled over and took Referee Bill Kaliska's count without offering to return to the combat. Kaliska raised Stribling's hand in token of victory, but the crowd raised a howl and awaited developments the while Nelson was because of this fight. Less courage real convents the while Nelson was because of this fight. Less courage real convents the while Nelson was the courage warriors would have taken the contest that had marred the contest when "Strib" shoved Nelson away. The latter fell back to the ropes, rolled over and took Referee Bill Kaliska's count without offering to return to the combat. Kaliska raised Stribling's hand in token of victory, but the crowd raised a howl and awaited developments the while Nelson was the courage feature of this fight. Less courage warriors would have taken the contest when the contest when "Strib" shoved Nelson into the latter's corner, feinted himself with waiting for the blow that would finish him. Finally Stribling decided to end the bout for good. He rushed Nelson into the latter's corner, feinted with his left and crashed over a right, Nelson going down. He came up once, but took another and went down to stay.

Contrasting the loser's showing in the main event was the courage and fighting heart of little Jimmy Proto, it has made to the combat. The little stribute was advertised to end the bout for wide with waiting for the twilight affair." Then he contented himself with waiting for the twillight affair."

count without offering to return to the combat. Kaliska raised Stribling's hand in token of victory, but the crowd raised a howl and awaited developments, the while Nelson was being revived from the knockout.

Then followed a brief consultation between officials of the 108th cavalry troop—the promoters—the participants and their managers. It was decided to give Nelson another chance and the spectators were invited to get back to their seats. After a delay of fully 20 minutes the fighters went to it again and Nelson went down for keeps in the second round, a hard right to the chin putting him to the right to the chin putting him to the canvas, where he stayed.

was Not a Foul.

After the decision to Give Billy Lotz' entry another crack at the championship belt would be given to Stribling on the strength of the 3-round knockout, as judges and referee ruled there had been no foul committed. It was also stated that whatever betting had been done would be settled on the same basis.

In and we venture assertion that he is right now more of an attraction dan he was when he entered the ring last night. Atlanta fans like courage and den't think they don't recognize it when it appears.

The first round was a whirlwind affair with Silver having the shade. The Atlanta boy slipped to his knees while in a clinch, but while the fall looked like a knockdown. Referee Kaliska stated after the bout that he is right now more of an attraction. Mobile, Ala., May 17.—With the release of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile Southern the release of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a right now more of an attraction dan to be release of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile, Ala., May 17.—With the release of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile, Ala., May 17.—With the release of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander of the Mobile of Pitcher Joe Patterson, a rightlander mitted. It was also stated that whatever betting had been done would be settled on the same basis.

And under the rules governing the award of the titular belt, Stribling will not necessarily have to fight in order to retain it for the next six months. It was tipulated by the NuGrape company, donors of the trophy, that the winner would be forced to defend the belt at least once every three months. So Stribling won the championship and incidentally his first fight and doing so all in the same night, which ought to be a world's record, even if it isn't.

Seriously, however, Stribling could take on a dozen Nelsons every night in the week and never tire of heating them. Nelson proved a defensive fighter and not even a good one at that. He was totally unfited to meet Stribling's attack, was holding on at every opportunity and admittedly had no desire to continue the battle after taking a right to the jaw in the second round that put him down for a count of 6. So far as Nelson was concerned that blow finished him and he had not led until he took the count in the third.

In the second fight he offered to set the file of the second fight he offered to the file of the second fight he offered to the file of the second round that put him down for a count of 6. So far as Nelson was stopping the bout just as Proto's manager tossed in the sponge.

Our idea of the smartest trader in the Southern league is Johnny Dobbs, who recently transplanted his allegiance to Memphis. If you doubt the assertion, just think about what Johnny secured for his club the other day simply by letting the Washington Senators have a look at Paul Zahniser, who isn't the best pitcher in the loop and has never been accused of being.

Let's see now, what did Johnny do in that trade? Well, Infielder Lamotte and Catcher Lapan were sent to the Chicks in exchange. Possibly there were more, but these are the players whose names will appear very shortly in the Memphis lineup. Others involved are not to be given a chance right now when the Tribe is trying to get back into a winning stride.

Lamotte and Lapan should be enough, but there is still more that the cunning Dobbs accomplished in the same transaction. Provided the Senators take a liking to Zahniser and decide to retain him, $6,000 in hard, cold cash will be sent to the Memphis club. That price seems big enough itself, let alone getting such players as Lapan and Lamotte tossed

New Chick Players Are Real Stars.

The value of Lamotte and Lapan to the Memphis roster can hardly be overestimated. It has been no secret that Dobbs was after a catcher. Tate and Lynn were his experiments earlier in the season and neither proved satisfactory. It is said that much of the Chicks' failure to hit a good stride and maintain it was due to the poor receiving turned out by these backstops.

The weakness was apparent even as early as the exhibition games, but Dobbs was unable to put his finger on the right prospect. We believe he has pulled out of the big tent one of the best catchers that has been in the Southern league since Val Picinich, Cy Perkins, Hank Deberry and others were in the circuit. Lapan was unknown to fans of this section until last season when he was introduced by Kid Elberfeld.

Catching for Little Rock, Lapan participated in 142 games and had very creditable fielding mark. However, it was with the willow that Lapan earned most of the fame that resulted in his purchase by the Senators. Lapan batted .335, being the only catcher in the league, with the exception of Arthur Pond, of Memphis, to reach the charmed circle and Pond was in but 59 engagements. Lapan's average made him sixth in the batting column.

Lamotte Had Fair Season in Majors. There is nothing in Lamotte's record to indicate he is coming to the Southern because he failed to make good up yonder where supposedly the best in the business are pastiming. He appeared at third base in up-wards of 60 games for the Senators and was far from being the worst third-sacker in the big tent. In addition to a very good fielding percenttage, Lamotte batted better than .250, which is good enough hitting, it

It is a figure higher than that now being sported by Sammy Hale, Willie Kamm and other expensive young men imported to bolster weak places on other American league clubs. Certainly it appears to be too handsome to force its possessor from a claim to a major league meal ticket, especially when that same possessor is the "boot" in a deal involving an untried minor league pitcher not even hopeful of pulling the fact, the Crackers, like Major Whittlesey, of world war fame, don't begin fighting until the enemy is on all sides and the shadow of defeat descending over the orchard. It is then that Miller's men get their heads together and launch their attacks.

Now if this poor deponent ever saw a licked team for five innings, the Crackers were strapped to the mast for that period Thursday. Mr. Faeth had given up but two hits and the first of these had not come until the fourth inning, when Joseph Guyon crashed a one-timer to right. Adding to local misery was the fact that Oscar Tuero, the Cuban baseball magician, had proved no mystery at all to the eight 300 stickmen who are drawing salaries from headquarters at Nashville.

Faeth began his lapse of memory in the 6th when Otto Miller led off with a double and called upon his champion charger. Strategy—again represented by Benny Karr and his pinch hitting weapon—for transportation home. Benny delivered with a mighty poke over third that goes into the official stick averages as a double and the Cracker boss walked home. This should have joited Tony out of his trance, but it didn't.

Neither did Elton Langford's smashing home run drive in the seventh, straight over Jack Corbett's pretty little picket fence in right, have any good effect on Faeth, because he still had a margin of one run and figured a very deceptive curve to be the thing with which to stop the Crackers if they continued to get fresh with him. Wherein Mr. Faeth guessed badly, for having tasted of blood the boys went gunning for more.

The fatal blow was delivered in the eighth and while Mr. Faeth was not entirely to blame for the consequences, he should have known Mr.

But Faeth was kind enough to the locals to walk Killinger and the bases were jammed and "Babe" Herman at bat. After throwing two balls to the bambino, Faeth uncorked a wild pitch and Brock crossed with the tying run, Dowd and Killinger advancing. This appeared to be a good time to walk Herman, but Faeth couldn't forget Langford's homer in the previous inning and Elton was up next. So Tony just shut his eyes and slammed one down Babe's favorite groove. Looks Bad for Crackers.

We could see nothing but defeat, but it hadn't dawned on us that Mr. Faeth was the possessor of such an atrocious memory. Tony simply could not stand prosperity and his letting in two instances put the Crackers into position for the grand slam, which made its appearance in the eighth when the locals ceased being the under dog and stepped right into the glory that comes with the lead.

Get Bad Start.

The Crackers' start after these runs was not one that tempted the fans to joyful ejaculations, for Manager Miller lifted weakly to Michaels at short. But Miller thought it was some more, so Brock was sent in to some more, so Brock was sent in to junch hit for Chiff Best, who had relieved Tuero on the mound.

If Brock had hit "a screaming single to the scoreboard" as they used to write about Chief Meyers, he couldn't have done any better, for he was hit by one of Faeth's breakers and went to first. Dowd hit a cranky sort of grounder toward second base. It looked like another double play for the Vols—they had already rung up three—but Michaels juggled the ball and both runners were safe, Guyon and both runners were safe, Guyon went out on a fly to LeBourveau and it seemed that the threat was about to subside.

Young Boys Drown In Pond Near Perry; Dropped Into Hole

Macon, Ga., May 17 .- Two young sons of Cooper Jones, farmer, were drowned in a pond near Perry, Ga., this afternoon. The boys, 8 and 10, were with school children hunting plums, when they came to a pond in the woods. In the center of the pond was a deep well. The boys went in wading and dropped out of sight when they reached the well. The bodies were recovered a half hour later.

The victims of the drowning were Riley Jones, 10, and Walter Jones, 8. They were nephews of George S. Riley, former chief of police of Macon.

Agnes Scott Club to Hold Children's Carnival Today

The Atlanta Agnes Scott club will present some of the Agnes Scott May day dances at the children's carnival to be held on the lawn of Mrs. Clyde King, at 1010 Ponce de Leon avenue, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The May day festival is always one of the most attractive features of the college year and was peculiarly successful this year due to the efforts of Miss Isobel Randolph and Miss Harriet Haynes, of the physical educational department.

The story is that of an Indian youth, Rising Sun, the last of his tribe, who meets and woos and weds the Indian maid, Morning Star. The pantomic portrayal of the story is worked out by a series of beautiful dances supporting the work of the telented principals. Among the most effective of these as to color

Seminary Class of 1922 Gives Unique Entertainment singing of the Tech quartet, accompanied by Miss Mildred Davis, and the violin numbers by Miss Ruth Dabney

A unique and entertaining event of Thursday evening was the vaude-ville show presented by the members of the 1922 class of Washington seminary at the Woman's club auditorium.

She was accompanied by Miss Marguerite Bartholomew at the piano.

The Spanish dance number given by Miss Irene Thomas in Light-col-ate of last year, acted as chairman, and is largely responsible for the tremendous success of the performance. She was assisted by Raiford Gaffney, to be a success of the performance.

She was assisted by Raiford Gaffney, a talented young Atlantan.

The Tech Glee club and orchestra urnished the music for the vaude wille numbers and during the intermission rendered popular airs, which was an added feature to the entertainment.

The outstanding number on the program was the exquisite singing of Riely Eakin, well-known dramatic soprano. In costume she sang "Buddha," and was at her best in the everloved "Chinese Lullaby," from East Is West. Mrs. Eakin has endeared herself to thousands of music lovers through her rich soprano voice by

A knock came to the door, interrupting the vehement flow.

Lady Warrington went to open it, trailing her peignoir on the floor. She was considerably "workedup," as was only natural in the circumstances.

On officer of the law stood on the threshold. He held something glittering in his hand.

"We found this in the long grass not far from the window, Ma'am," he said quietly, cautiously displaying a revolver.

Both women fell back at once.

"Don't be afraid. I took out the other cartridges," He turned the weapon round, "Ordinary pattern, but it'll give a clue."

He looked keenly at Marcella, and Lady Warrington said:

"This is the young lady who was going to marry the—the murdered man."

"Ah!" He drew out the syllable.

"Ah!" He drew out the syllable.
"We shall want her evidence. Has she just arrived?"
Marcella nodded dumbly.
The three went down to the hall.
Graves was marching up and down,

about him?"
The butler hesitated.
"He was excited. He said he must see Mr. Treman, right away. It was important."
"And you went up to Mr. Treman's room and knocked?"
"Yes, sir. Mr. Treman was in his dressing gown, reading a book in an armehair."
"Did he agree to see this Mr. Holden?"

"He didn't seem too pleased. He kind of hesitated, and then asked me what the gentleman's business was, what the gentleman's business was, and couldn't it keep until the morning?"

"And you said—?"

"Just what I said to you, sir—that the gentleman seemed agitated, and said he must see Mr. Treman."

The police official raised his brows, "Peremptory, wasn't he? Well"

The police official raised his brows. "Peremptory, wasn't he? Well, what then?"

"Mr. Treman gave a short, hard kind of laugh, muttered something that sounded like: "the fool!" and then told me to show him up."

"You did so?"

"Yes."

A pause. Graves loked uncomfortable, as though more lay behind all this, and yet he dreaded to unfold the tale.

towers with two servants. I was eager to set foot in the ruins. And I did actually reach the first piles of debris. You won't forget that, will you, old man? I was the first white man in Sangan."

Gray nodded. He felt again the zeal that had drawn Sir Lionel blindly to the heart of the Gobi. And had perhaps sacrificed Mary to the pride of the scientist. But he could not accuse the wearied man before him of a past mistake.

"Go on," he said grimly.

Lionel had found them hardly what Gray expected. A leper's colony is not a pleasant thing to visit. And these gnards, in the ruins of Sungan, was Mary Hastings.

He pictured her as he had first seen her—a slender figure in the bright tent, mistress of well trained serious trained first. It seemed to him it had been a long time. As nearly as he had ever worshiped anything, he worshiped the girl.

"Then Mary and I discovered the Wusun." Sir Lionel laughed suddenly, harshly. He gained control of himself at once. "They came—these inhabitants of Sungan—from behind the stone heaps and out of what seemed to be holes in the ground. As I said, it was late evening and I could not see their faces well. They were unarmed. Capt. Gray, but in considerable force. They ran forward with a lumbering gait, like animals. They were dressed in filthy strips of sheepskin, which gave out a foul smell. I had my revolver. Still, I hesitated to shot down these unarmed beggars. They did not answer my hail which was given in Persian, then in Turki. "Seeing that they were plainly hostile, I began to shoot. They came on doggedly, apparently without fear hostile, I began to shoot. They came on doggedly, apparently without fear of hurt. And my two men ran. One was a brave boy, Capt. Gray—a syee who had been with me for several years. Yet he threw away his rifle and ran. I saw two of the men of Sungan pull him down."

Gray shivered involuntarily, thinking of the girl that Sir Lionel had brought to this place.

"I do not understand why it hanpened." the Englishman observed plaintively. "We had given these men no cause to attack us. I believe they were not the same fellows who rushed us the night before. For one thing, these had no arms. There were women among them. They gave me the impression of dogs, hunting in a pack. They must have been waiting for us in over."

"What happened to the carayan?" "Rushed. The Sungan people got to it before Mary and I could gain the cann. Our bors were supprised, Only a few shots were fired. The camels took fright and ran through the tents. I saw Ram Singh and another try to get out to me with sunga rifles. The set out to me with sr Sikh, who had the ra shot very accurately. But the Sun zanis came between us, and I saw him so down fighting under a nack of men. Mary and I turned aside and tried to escape into the soul dunes."

"I had water, thanks. Back there, by the tamarisk tree. The caravan camped there for the night, two—or three days ago. I don't remember which." He wheeled slowly in his tracks. "Come."

It was this quiet of the man that disturbed Gray profoundly. There was something aimless and despairing in his dull movements. Gray, seeing how ill he was, restrained from asking further questions until they were seated in the small patch of shadow. The Kirghiz retired to a neighboring knoll with their rifes.

"It was near here we discovered camel tracks—wild camel tracks."

The words startled Gray, coming the dimension of them of the words the was gone."

The words startled Gray, coming on top of the dispute with Mirai Khan that morning.

"Did you lose the caravan?" he exclaimed. "Good Lord, man! Where is Mary?"

"I've lost the caravan." said Sir "Gray's "Gray's "Gray's "Hastings was in the Sungan ruins."

"And Mary as well."

"Gray's "Realth who were tracking of the men who were tracking out my footprints. They have an uncanny knack at that, Captain Gray. As I said, they reminded me of dogs."

Gray was silent, breaking little twings from the bush under which they sat and throwing them from him as he thought. Sir Lionel's story was worse than he had expected. Mary Hastings was in the Sungan ruins. Honel. "And Mary as well."
Sudden dread tugged at Gray's heart.

"As Sungan."

OILS WITHSTAND ATTACK OF BEARS

Losses on Curb Are Held to Fractions; Cities Service Shows Increased Earnings.

New York. May 17 .- Oil shares were the targets for bear attacks in today's curb market, new low record for the year being established by Standard Oils of Indiana, and New York, Gulf of Pennsylvania, Salt Creek and Mountain Producers, Mutual Oil and International Petroleum, but the net loss in each case was held to a point or less.

Cities Service, Imperial, Northern Pipe, Ohio Oil and Prairie Oil and Gas yielded to 1 to 2 points and Vacuum dropped 1 3-8 on transactions of nearly 10,000 shares. The April statement of the Cities Service Company showed net earnings of $1.640,189, an increase of $351,923 over the same month last year. Maracaibo Oil moved against the current trend, gaining nearly a point. vere the targets for bear attacks in gaining nearly a point.

Price movements in the industrial and mining groups were narrow and irregular.

CROPS SUFFERING FROM BAD WEATHER, FARMERS REPORT

The following summary is compiled The following summary is compiled from the reports of the federal statisticians of the southeast, Frank Parker, North Carolina; B. B. Hare, South Carolina; F. W. Gist, Alabama; S. T. Fleming, Florida; G. L. Morris, Tennessee; Z. R. Pettet, Georgia, and issued through the Georgia Co-operative Crop Reporting service by the local statistician.

damage from excessive moisture, cold, and high winds.

Cold has retarded the growth of cotton. There is quite common complaint of delay in planting on account of roain, young cotton dying on account of low temperature and of fields becoming grassy. Florida reports that bloom is now showing up on the bottom corp. Alabama and Georgia report fair to good stands in the southern part of the states with chopping reasonably advanced. In the northern portion of Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama a considerable proportion of the cotton remains to be planted. The season is getting very late for this to be done with hopes of making a successful crop in advance of the weevil. Considerable areas remain unplanted in Tennessee and North Carolina. A number of mountain counties in the northern area complain of frost damage during past week. The weather conditions have been such as to limit what would otherwise have been a very heavy increase in cotton acreage.

Florida Corn.

In the extreme southeast corn is well advanced, but the upper portion of the teartiery has yet very release to the cotton of the cotton remains to be planted. The season is getting to

And Reviews

New York, May 17 .- The market today New York, May 17.—The market today has reflected a gradual revival of confidence with encouraging reports from spot centers. In the goods market there is a better feeling and some demand although buyers do not seem as yet willing to meet the present asked quotations. On June 1, the government will issue its first condition as of May 25. Many are awaiting this report before making commitments, for the general impression seems to be first the government estimate of acreace increase was exaggerated and very premature.
